

Upgrade Auto dealers' Key Storage Boxes for RKE with RKE Key Fob Pouches

Auto dealers effectively use key storage boxes hung from car windows or parking lot posts to simplify key management and ease of access for test drives. With the advent of Remote Keyless Entry (RKE) systems and proximity key fobs, RKE systems stored near vehicles cause unintended access.

Select Fabricators' RKE Key Fob pouches prevent proximity key fobs from unlocking a car and fit easily into auto dealers' existing key storage boxes.

Made of highly conductive material, they prevent signals from exiting or entering the pouch. The flexible pouches fit remote entry key fobs of varying sizes and shapes from most auto manufacturers.

These simple-to-use, flexible pouches work with most standard key storage boxes. Select's fabric pouches replace the thin aluminum two-part inserts that can bend and be difficult to fit into a key storage box.
